Pleasanton teachers closer to contract

Laying down a hot batch on Stanley Blvd.

LIVERMORE — The hot asphalt sizzled and popped yesterday as workers from Gallagher & Burk general contractors rolled out the first stretch of the Stanley Boulevard project.

It was the first sign of a smooth driving surface since walnut trees were yanked down this summer near Shadow Cliffs Regional Park to make room for the four-lane road connecting Livermore and Pleasanton.

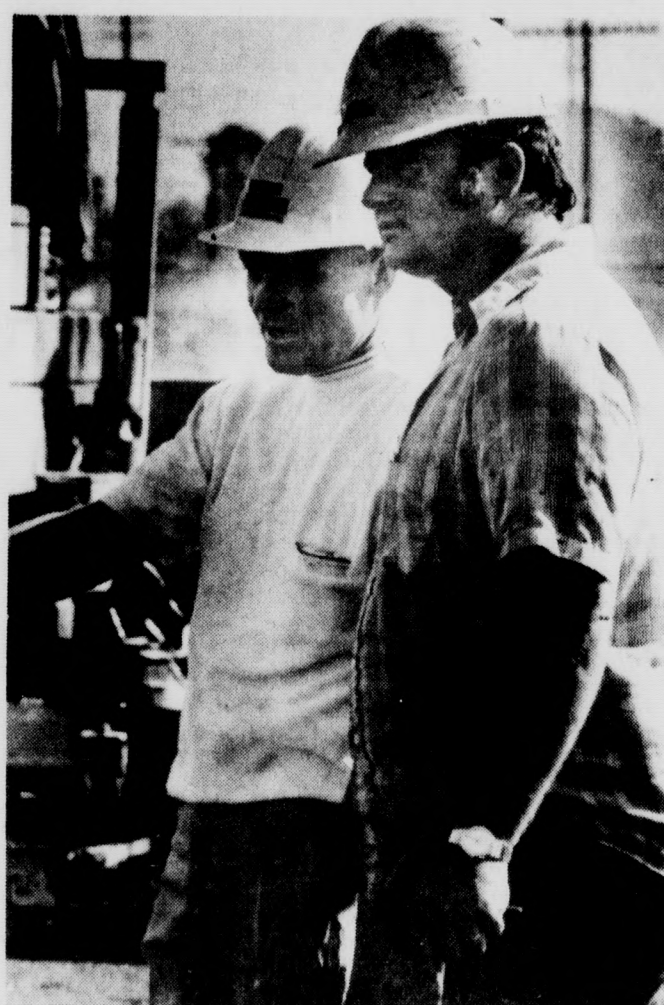

The paving crew, under the direction of foreman Larry Silva, began laying the base course of asphaltic concrete at 7:30 yesterday morning and by 1 they had cranked out nearly a half mile of surface one lane wide.

John Burk, who heads the construction outfit, said the success of paving a four-lane surface depends on coordinating the paving crew with the grading crew. "You've got to keep them separate," Burk said, "so they won't be competing for the same part of the road."

Currently the paving crew is working near the Kaiser gravel operation, where a Southern-Pacific railroad spur cuts across the roadway, and the grading crew is leveling off the area near Shadow Cliffs where the road will funnel down to two lanes as it comes into Pleasanton.

"It's our first day," Burk told The Times. "Now, that we've got the crews working together, they look pretty good."

Burk expects to pave 22,000 tons of asphaltic concrete for the Stanley Boulevard project at a rate of 2,000 tons per day. He hauls the stuff to the construction site in 23-ton loads from the Gallagher & Burk plant in Oakland, and from the Livermore-Pleasanton industrial plant.

The Cedar Rapids paving machine chews up a load of asphalt and leaves behind a hot surface to be rolled out. Contractor John Burk points out the game plan to foreman Larry Silva (top right) as asphalt is laid on Stanley Boulevard.

Others mum on progress

While Pleasanton school district teacher and board negotiators have moved closer to reaching a tentative contract agreement, talks in the Amador and San Ramon districts await meetings tentatively slated Thursday.

Teachers and administrators in Livermore and Amador were closed mouth on negotiations.

Murray teachers will vote at their respective schools Oct. 18 on a tentative contract agreement reached last week. The Murray board is not expected to act on ratification until their board meeting of Nov. 7.

San Ramon teachers and administration are still in mediation with state-appointed conciliator Peter Lujan. Teachers held a general assembly last Wednesday at which time prospective community information committees were set up. Negotiating team chief Mike Shackelford indicated that the district school board meeting of Oct. 17 would be pivotal in determining whether teachers moved farther down the path toward a walkout.

Contract talks in the Livermore district were postponed last spring when both parties agreed to await the outcome of the state Assembly's school finance bill. They resumed last month after passage of AB 65.

The teachers' proposals presented last spring called for increased salaries, health and dental benefits, pay for extracurricular duties, and improved evaluation procedures.

Allen Schell, former president of the Livermore Education Association, has replaced Joe Medeiros as chairman of the teachers' negotiating committee. Medeiros was recently named a Dean at Granada High School.

Though Pleasanton teacher and board negotiators have reportedly reached tentative agreement on most items, the key issues of salary and advisory arbitration on points not in the contract still have to be settled.

Representative council members are to meet today at Pleasanton School to provide direction for the teacher negotiating team.

The next negotiations session is Thursday.

Tom Zach, president of the Amador Valley Teachers Association, expressed confidence for an early settlement.

Pleasanton teachers and board failed to come to a contract agreement last school year.

Rita Rowland, negotiating team leader for Amador district teachers, said both sides were still split on percentage of salary increase but declined to offer any further details of negotiations to date.

The two sides met last Wednesday and may meet again Thursday night.

Touring display

Livermore's fight against criminals

Livermore's 2nd Annual Crime Prevention Week and Fire Prevention Week have begun and continue through next Saturday, Oct. 15, highlighted by the appearance of the county's crime prevention van at stores and shopping centers throughout town.

Crime prevention week is a joint project of the Livermore fire departments and local merchants. The touring van will have displays and material on the prevention of vandalism, burglary and shoplifting. Policemen and firemen on duty will also distribute a coloring book created especially for the event by the Alameda County Sheriff's Department to all children when accompanied by an adult.

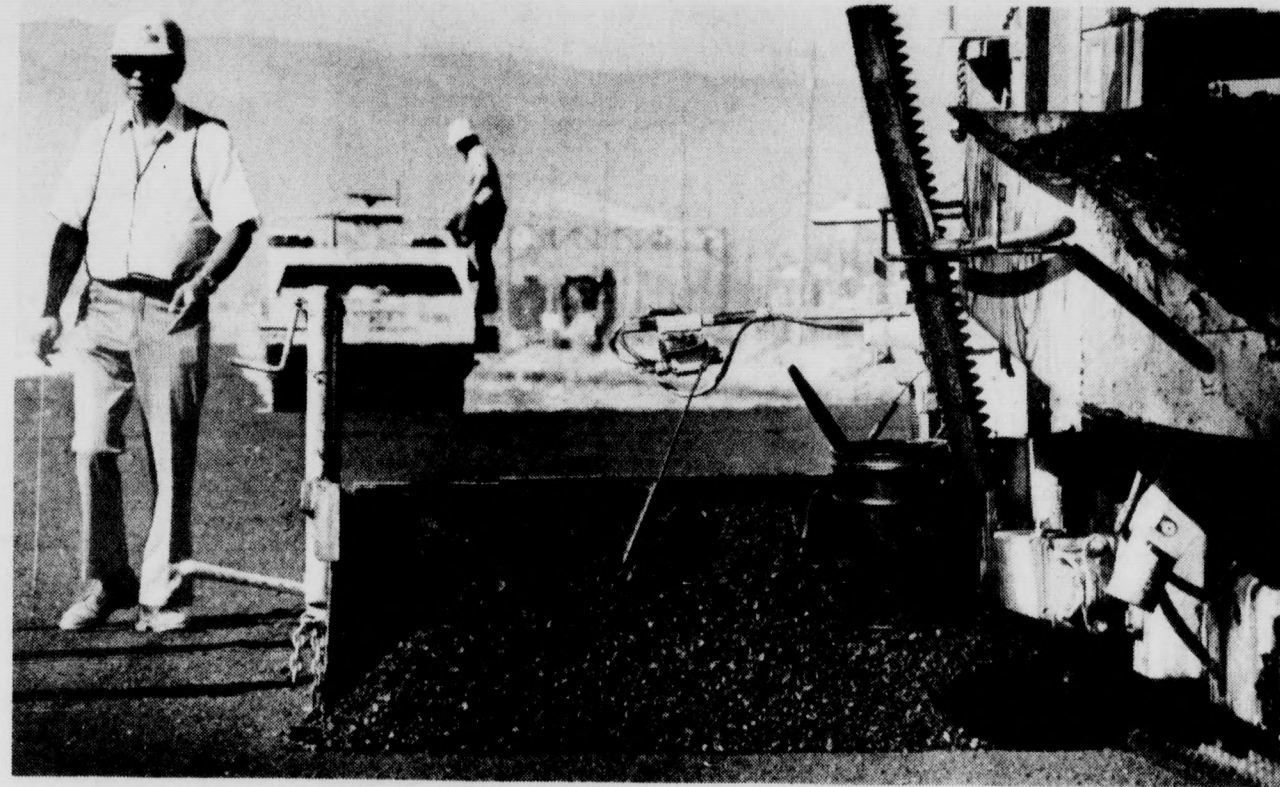

Kids four through eight years old can also enter the week's coloring contest by turning in coloring books at either the van or the Livermore library. All winners will be announced the following week.

This week the van has scheduled stops at the following locations:

- Monday, Oct. 10, 2nd and L Sts.
- Tuesday, Oct. 11, East Avenue Shopping Center.
- Wednesday, Oct. 12, Rincon Shopping Center.
- Thursday, Oct. 13, Alpha Beta Square.
- Friday, Oct. 14, Vineyard and Pacific Avenues.
- Saturday, Oct. 15, The arcade at 1st and S. P. Sts.

Other activities scheduled are mini business seminars for management and the public, Wednesday at 8 a.m. at Rincon and Thursday at 8 a.m. at Alpha Beta; bicycle registration at any fire station and home security surveys done on request by police officers.

Bed touched off blaze in Livermore

LIVERMORE — A portable heater apparently ignited bedding and started a fire at 5376 Scenic Way late Sunday that engulfed two rooms before being brought under control. No injuries were reported.

A fire department spokesman said 10 firefighters responded to fight the blaze at the Melvin Kirby household at 10:18 p.m. Sunday.

A bedroom and a study were almost destroyed by fire and smoke damage, the spokesman reported. No estimate of damage was given. The fire is under investigation.

Dublin cityhood drive

Will chamber get involved?

DUBLIN — Dublin Chamber of Commerce members are being given a chance to say yes or no about whether they want the chamber to become officially involved in an effort to incorporate Dublin.

Chamber President Todd Lee sent questionnaires to the chamber's 245 members over the weekend. An explanatory letter was included.

In his letter, Lee stated, "During the formation stages of the committee for incorporation, it became apparent to the leaders and committee members that at least a semi-official body was needed to head or sponsor or promote the incorporation drive. The leaders of this incorporation movement approached the Chamber of Commerce to become the official sponsoring body of the incorporation of the City of Dublin."

Lee said chamber directors would not say yes or no to sponsoring the incorporation movement until they determined how chamber members felt about the matter.

Arguments in favor of incorporating Dublin were included in Lee's letter.

"Dublin is a historical area of Alameda County and it should be preserved as a separate entity from other geographical and political entities.

Dublin's tax base through sales is great enough to support the area of Dublin as a city and provide better service than we are presently receiving from the county of Alameda.

The questionnaire portion asks, "Should the Dublin Chamber of Commerce become the sponsoring, endorsing, coordinating body behind the incorporation movement for the proposed City of Dublin?"

The Pleasanton Housing Authority Board is scheduled to meet Wednesday at 8:30 a.m. to approve an application requesting federal funding, which would be used to weatherize the low income Komandorski Village project.

Pleasanton's new homeowner group

PLEASANTON — Putting pressure on the city to get its own neighborhood park will be a major goal of the newly formed Mission Park Homeowners Association.

The money once was in the city budget for a park at the southeast end of Mission Drive, but the priority was pushed down.

"The vote on the city council was 3-2; maybe if we had been organized then, it would have gone the other way," commented MPHA member Pam Grove yesterday.

Besides lobbying for the park, the members will pay attention to the future of commercially zoned property at the tract entrance, proposals for single family homes on the hill near the tract, and the city's old sewage treatment plant, which has raised an odor problem from time to time over the years.

Main purpose of the group is to "preserve the character of Mission Park as a semi-rural area and improve the value of property," said Grove.

The group will conduct its first board meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow at 5689 San Antonio Street.

Officers chosen at an earlier meeting include Bob Grove, president; Bill Hankins, vice-president; Karin Mohr, secretary; Jack Stevens, treasurer; and Ron Razano, Judy Mayhew and Jim Knox, directors.

New models

The new cars have rolled off the assembly lines and onto showroom floors. Friday, The Times will publish a special section devoted to the 1978 automobile, and all the new features from Detroit. There are jet engines, factory installed CB's, and more. Look for it.

While being booked at Santa Rita Jail, officers found eight red capsules in the suspect's left sock that police said tested positive for barbituates.

Booked on suspicion of possessing a controlled substance, drunk driving and battery against a police officer was Brad J. Toland, 22, of 1624 Orchard Way.

Crews pour the asphalt

After the road bed has been graded and watered down, it is covered with oil and rolled to make it ready for the huge "Cedar Rapids" paving machine. This machine swallows a semi-truck load of asphalt and simultaneously lays out a smooth 2 1/4-inch thick surface as it creeps down the barren road bed. It only takes 10 to 15 minutes for the Cedar Rapids machine to chew up a 23-ton load and leave behind a hot smooth surface.

A roller moves in right behind the paving machine and mashes the steaming pavement down to two inches.

The complete road surface takes three base courses before the top "running mat" is ironed on. Then the job is only half done with finishing touches such as painting, guard rails, and landscaping left to go.

The four-lane road and 10-foot wide bike path from Murdell Lane in Livermore to Shadow Cliffs Park is expected to be finished by April next year.

Extended

Traffic was mildly congested on Santa Rita Road at Valley Avenue yesterday as workmen toiled over the extension of Valley Avenue to Busch Road in Pleasanton. Valley Avenue will be extended directly across to Busch Road for easier access to the Pleasanton Transfer Station, and will serve future residents of the Morrison Homes development currently under construction there. A traffic signal is expected to be operational at Santa Rita and Valley sometime in December.

Livermore's energy planners

LIVERMORE — What is this city's Energy Conservation Committee? The group most recently has been associated with the insulation issue at city council meetings.

Chairman Burt Gasten recommended the insulation ordinance be delayed until his committee could come up with exact figures on costs of insulation, effectiveness and other variables affecting the decision on insulation.

The committee has been in existence only about a year, and the 15-member committee serve two-year terms. City council appoints the members, and they may be re-appointed for an additional term.

However, there are two vacancies on the committee now, due to the resignations of Ron Ritschard and Barbara Hartley. Rita Morris recently replaced original member Bert Graf. The committee's primary concern is to advise the council and planning commission on the development of energy conservation goals and the means to achieve them. They also will recommend an energy element for the city's general plan, to integrate energy conservation in all future development.

At the time it was conceived in 1975, Councilman Glen Dahlbacka, then on the planning commission, said they hoped to tap local expertise to study the energy conservation possibilities such as enacting a city ordinance that would regulate the utilities so that customers using the energy during off-peak hours would pay lower rates.

But right now the committee, which meets at least once a month, mainly is working on the energy element development, emphasized Gasten. "It's our plan to hold off on any ordinances or ordinance recommendations until the energy element is developed," he said.

The committee did not write the insulation ordinance, nor any other conservation-related ordinance yet. The ordinances come from the city council and the committee merely provides background research for them, he said. They made a study earlier this year about whether or not attic fans served the purpose they were supposed to do, and came up with the recommendation that if the home is insulated to R-25 standards, it would not need an attic fan.

Key funds for that pipeline

LIVERMORE — The $38 million sewage export pipeline moved a step closer to reality Thursday when the Livermore - Amador Valley Water Management Agency (LAVWMA) accepted $17.9 million in federal funds for construction costs.

The joint powers agency, with representatives from Livermore, Dublin and Pleasanton, expects to receive an estimated $3.5 million in state funding next week.

When completed in 1980, the 22-mile pipeline will transport treated effluent from the Valley to the "super-sewer" pipeline for final dumping into San Francisco Bay.

The agency has already received $255,000 in federal funds and expects an additional $42,500 in state funds to conduct a study of reclamation/reuse possibilities. Four firms which expressed an interest in performing the study will be interviewed soon.

Reading help for adults

Livermore Adult School has introduced a new basic reading program designed to teach non-reading adults and to improve the reading of adults who feel their reading skills are inadequate.

The course begins with a diagnostic check to determine the student's reading level and needs. Students will be tutored on a one-on-one basis with progress records kept by both the student and tutor.

To begin the program students will be taught basic "attack" skills (blending individual sounds to form words) as well as 700 basic "sight" words where pronunciation must be memorized.

Students will be taught the most commonly used phonetic rules, the irregular sounds of certain letter combinations and the most common prefixes and suffixes for better vocabulary and word construction. All materials used in the program are at the adult level.

The adult reading class is scheduled to begin tomorrow night and will meet twice weekly, Mondays and Wednesdays from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. at Livermore High School.

Persons wishing to register can do so at the Livermore Adult School, 3044 East Ave. The fee is $3 and materials are extra.

LETTER TO ZUPPA

My Dearest Zuppa, Here I am on planet Earth. I want you to know that I arrived safely. The capsule came down in a field of tomatoes (similar to our zucchini, and quite a bright cheech in color) outside a suburban town just as the tomatoes reached their peak of juiciness. Yuk.

I thought you might be interested in the natives here, as they are quite primitive in their mind control. They are diverted by their senses to a great degree and many seem incapable of conceiving of the True Way.

The greatest power here on earth seems to be wielded by a quaint phenomenon called money. It is hard to explain what money is because we have nothing like it in Placia. But great palaces are built to honor it, called banks, and it can be used to help or to hurt, depending on who is using it. If the user is in the True Way, great love can be done.

It is encouraging though, dear Zuppa, that some of the natives are trying to break through to the True Way. They meet in groups to try to overcome their natural stupidity on the subject.

Their ignorance of the True Way would be appalling to you, Zuppa, but most of the natives are really harmless. They don't try to maintain the false recognition. They simply are overcome with much prejudice (rawka) which blocks their thinking on many subjects.

One shocking thing about the earthlings is that they do not value life. Can you imagine anything so backward? They even destroy their unborn fleems. The state allows it.

The fleems that are allowed to live are really very cute, and quite beautiful and precious. Some can be trained to seek the True Way, but most seem to end up hopeless cases, and live out their lives dictated by the economics of the country performing endless, often meaningless routines called jobs.

The most life threatening thing about the place is the pollution. But don't worry. I brought my breathing purifier and have kept it on the whole time. You see, in trying to solve one problem, the earth creatures often create worse problems for themselves.

When I return home to Placia, dearest Zuppa, I think it would be good if we set up a mind message mission especially for earthlings. Some of them seem capable of receiving, and we might be able to help them.

Eternally in the True Way, Your faithful Parda.

James Concannon (center front) raised 10 children and a lot of grapes in the Livermore Valley. The family still runs the winery.

Concannon Winery

Bottling Livermore's vintage history

The crush is on. The water table is down to 94 feet. The rain came at the wrong time. But, business goes on at the Concannon Winery — as it has for the past 94 years.

Winemaking is one of the few original pursuits of the Valley still growing and thriving. Both Concannon and Wentz Brothers planted their first vines in Livermore in 1883.

Those same vines have been replaced, at least once. Joseph Concannon, grandson of founder James Concannon, said plantings have to be replaced on an average of every 35 years. It's been found this improves the quality and the yield of the grapes.

A lot has been discovered about wine production since James Concannon decided to move from San Francisco to the country in 1883.

But, first things first. In 1865 James was 17 years old. His homeland, the Aran Islands of Ireland didn't present enough of a challenge for the young man. He decided to sail to the United States to make his fortune.

"He was an opportunist," explained his grandson.

James found work as a bellhop in a Maine hotel. Within a few years he had married, had a son and was managing the operation.

But, the money was to be made in the West. Concannon packed up his young family and moved to San Francisco to sell Bret Hart Novels.

It was rubber in those days, not plastic that helped Concannon prosper. He wound up with a rubber stamp franchise from Canada to Mexico City.

On business trips in Mexico he learned to speak Spanish. His fluency with the language helped to foster a friendship with the Spanish Bishop in San Francisco.

It was Archbishop Alemany who suggested Concannon could make a living in the country making sacramental wines for the outlying parishes.

With a letter of introduction from the Bishop and some grapevine cuttings imported from France, Concannon planted the first 47 acres on the gravelly Livermore soil.

At first the Concannons specialized in white wines. The deep gravel rock soil and the moderate climate were conducive to white wine production.

"And a survey of churches showed they wanted a light, sweet white wine because they often had to drink it during early morning services on an empty stomach. And, because it didn't stain the altar linen," explained Joseph Concannon.

Wine making is one of the few original Valley industries still thriving

Like early vineyards throughout California, "some of the field laborers were Chinese immigrants who worked hard for very little money. But, they came to better their lot and did," explained Joseph Concannon.

The first inside help, said Concannon, was mainly Italian immigrants. He said the following, or "second generation" field help were Filipinos. The Portuguese and French took jobs inside the house.

"Today, inside we're mainly Heinz 57. Outside is mainly Mexican help — all legal, permanent residents." The winery has a current work force of about 25 persons.

The make-up of the labor force isn't all that's continually changed.

"The grape we grow has changed with consumer tastes," said Concannon. "Today, white Bordeaux is extremely popular." Before prohibition, it was "dry reds," and afterwards wine high in alcohol were favored.

The winery survived during prohibition because of its history for producing sacramental wines. It was licensed by the government to provide wine to churches and drug stores, explained Concannon. The family winery now produces 50,000 cases of wine which are distributed in 30 states.

As extensive as the science of viticulture has become, a big part of succeeding in the wine industry is keeping once step ahead of the public, said Concannon.

Concannon said you have to look at the long range history to determine the trends in wine popularity.

Unlike many industries which can speed production to meet the public's demand, wine producing is a slow process.

Concannon said it takes nine years to plant, harvest and age a red wine before it is ready for the table. White wines are usually ready in five years.

Concannon Winery, it appears, has read the public correctly. In 1964 Joseph, the winery's general manager, and his brother, James, the winemaker, decided to produce a red wine.

Their final product, Petite Sirah, has become one of their biggest sellers. The Concannons were also the first U.S. winery to plant Rkatsiteli grapes imported from the Black Sea region in Russia. "Why not be different," explained Concannon.

As damaging as the drought this year has been, local vineyards have been through much more devastating natural disasters. Concannon explained that much of Alameda County was involved in wine making in the 1880's, but a blight of an aphid-like insect called phylloxera a long costal California attacked the roots of the vines and pretty much wiped out the industry here.

In the storage area of winery there are redwood vats bought from a local winery that went under because of the phylloxera.

Scientists have learned to deal with such problems now, and have helped to improve the quality of wine in many ways, said Concannon.

With the use of "membrane filtration" white wine can be bottled germ-free without the use of chemicals. "It's expensive, but for fine sugar or anything artificial," said Concannon. Joseph Concannon and his family live in the house his grandfather built. James and his family also live on the grounds in one of the original buildings.

For those who would like to view, or perhaps sample some of the history of winemaking in the Valley, guests are welcome at the Concannon winery Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tours are given starting on the hour.

Chiropractic Health Hints

BY DR. RAYMOND SERAFIN, D.C. A NATURAL HEALTH FAMILY PRACTICE

IF YOU DO NOT ENJOY GOOD HEALTH

CONSULT YOUR CHIROPRACTOR FIRST

ALLERGIES ARE CORRECTED THROUGH CHIROPRACTIC

There is much popularization today of allergies, and yet the underlying causative factor is seldom brought to the important place it should hold. The cause in any process is the starting point for correction and that, in brief, is what we want to deal with. The cause manifests the symptoms, true enough, but the cause, not the symptoms, is the real enemy.

By definition an allergy is: "the condition of being sensitive to substances which, in similar amounts, do not affect others." This quote is from the dictionary. Any sensory perception is registered by the sensory nervous system. Then does it seem reasonable to say that a certain food or pollen is to blame for an allergic reaction? It is far more reasonable to assume that the person's tissue resistance is lowered and thereby reacts to a substance in sensitivity.

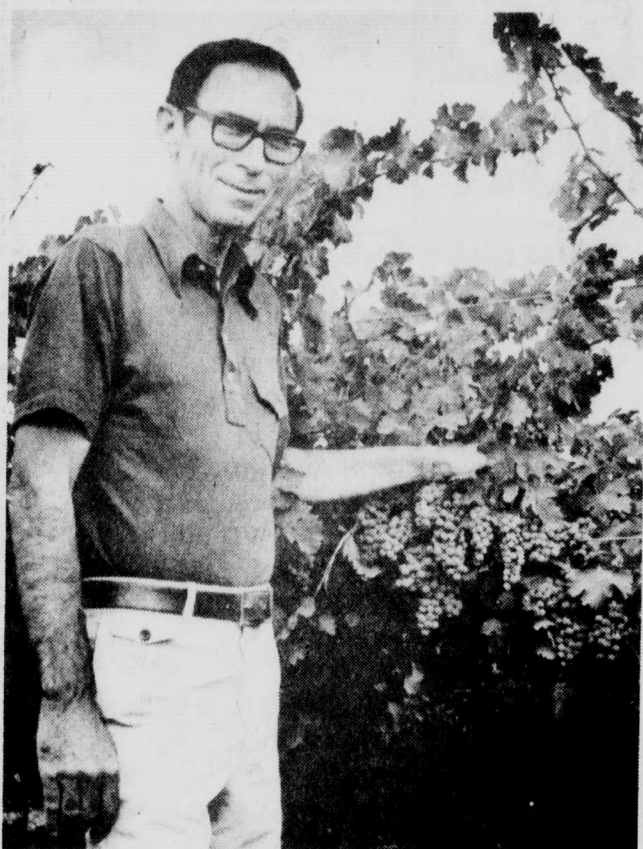

The nervous system is where the difference lies and not in a particular food or pollen which only produces the reaction. If the food or pollen is where the trouble began, wouldn't it be reasonable that the particular food or pollen would cause a reaction on every person and not just a few? Then is must be noted that the real difference is in the individual's nervous system and integrity of the tissues. Now that we have found the underlying cause, we naturally want to know why this nervous system has lowered resistance and what can be done to correct it.

Let us list the most important and the most common cause of lowered tissue resistance: fatigue, nervousness (from anxiety or worry), dietary deficiency, and hampered nerve function.

To leave these just as statements without qualifying them would misrepresent their true importance. For example, the nervous system's padding comes from the vitamin B complex group, and is this is lacking, the nervous system becomes hypersensitive. Fatigue lowers the tissue integrity and hampered nerve function lends itself to improper responses of the nervous system.

For more information on ALLERGIES call Dr. R.J. Serafin DC at 846-4732 or write 60 Mission Dr., Pleasanton.

Joseph Concannon inspects this year's crop. He and his brother James now run the winery which has expanded from the original 47 acres in 1883 to 300 acres today.

The American Association of University Women will hold a focus meeting Wednesday, Oct. 12 at 9:30 a.m. in the Pleasanton Presbyterian Church Social Hall, First and Neal Streets, Pleasanton. Members will explore study topics for the upcoming year.

Quest for energy-wise irrigation goes on

Irrigating crops while saving electricity has become more important to farmers as energy grows more scarce and expensive but conservation methods differ in various locations, according to a new report from the University of California, "Pumping Energy Requirements for Irrigation in California."

After analysis of energy needs for pumping water in the state, the report concluded, "There is no ideal irrigation method that consumes the least amount of energy in all situations."

One reason, the report said, was the energy requirements of different water sources vary according to location. In most parts of California sprinkler irrigation uses more energy than furrow or flood irrigation because the water must be pressurized though sprinklers use less water in the long run because they distribute it more efficiently.

In some locations the added efficiency of sprinklers saves energy as well as water. In the south coast basins water has been pumped over long distances and that energy cost is high. Efficient application of water makes up for the extra energy needed to operate the sprinklers. This can also be true for water pumped from deep wells.

Other findings in the report included:

*Irrigation pumping with electricity accounts for 13 percent of the total energy used for the growing and processing of farm commodities in the state. Other agricultural uses of energy are transportations, processing and fertilizer manufacture.

*Forty-three percent of the energy used for irrigation goes to pump groundwater, 41 percent to pump water through canals and 16 percent to pressurize irrigation systems.

*The lower San Joaquin Valley uses about half of the irrigation energy in California because of its large acreages of irrigated farms and reliance on water from deep wells and canal pumping stations. In contrast the Imperial and Coachella valleys use little energy because their water comes by gravity from the Colorado River.

Spelling out the sign law

LIVERMORE — Allow signing on "temporary" buildings but clarify wording in the sign ordinance. That's the gist of the staff report to be considered at the planning commission study session Wednesday night.

Staff recommendations include allowing signs on "temporary" buildings for the duration of the zoning use permit, but asks for clarification of ordinance language to prohibit transfer of signing from one building to another.

The staff also felt the ordinance language needs to be clarified regarding the prohibition to transfer aggregate sign from one building front to another. Wording is vague indicating what signing is allowed between 20-25 feet from the freeway right-of-way, staff felt. The planning commission also will look at what types of uses and potential locations would be affected by amending sign requirements for open land uses.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. in the municipal court chambers.

In addition to sign ordinance requirements, the commission will study inconsistent zoning requirements for outdoor storage and display. The staff is recommending that a public hearing be set to clarify the ordinance wording to require all retail sales of merchandise be conducted within a completely enclosed building except for automobile, boat, trailer and similar vehicle sales lots. Outdoor storage areas would have to be completely enclosed with a minimum six-foot high solid fence or wall.

School language surveys out

As part of a state-mandated effort to determine if language instruction is that language which is most clearly understood by the student, Valley school districts are sending home Home Language Survey forms.

The forms have been developed to comply with the mandate stipulated in the California Bilingual Education Act, AB 1329, that a language census be conducted to determine the primary language of each student in California public schools, kindergarten through 12th grade.

The form asks the parent or guardian to list the child's full name, grade and age.

BORN LOSER

If you think things sometimes go wrong for you, you'll feel better after laughing at "The Born Loser" each morning in The Times comics.

Four questions are asked.

"Which language did your son or daughter learn when he or she first began to talk?"

"What language does your son or daughter most frequently use at home?"

"What language do you use most frequently to speak to your son or daughter?"

"Name the languages in the order most often spoken by the adults at home." Spaces are left for three languages.

A cover letter, detailing the section of the California Education Code, and the actual survey form, were developed pursuant to a contract between the Superintendent of Public Instruction, State of California, and the Regents of the University of California.

School district administrators are asking that the survey forms be returned to the respective schools as soon as possible.

Dodgers, Yankees to square off today

Reggie Jackson warmed up for today's World Series opener.

AP LASERPHOTO

NEW YORK — When the Los Angeles Dodgers open the World Series Tuesday night against the New York Yankees, Manny Mota and Vic Davalillo will be sitting in their accustomed positions on the bench.

But if it weren't for these two seemingly ageless baseball wonders, the Dodgers might not be in the World Series.

Mota and Davalillo, the potent righty-lefty real steal.

Since his return, Davalillo has hit .319 in his pinch-hitting role. Included among his 15 pinch hits this season was the bunt single that triggered that dramatic two-out rally against Philadelphia.

"I thought I was going to get old down there in the Mexican League," said Davalillo. "Now that I'm here, I'd like to stay with the Dodgers, but if they don't want me ... well I'll just go back to the — Mexican League. I hope to keep playing ball until someone says 'Vic, we don't want you anymore.'"

Mota is of a similar mind. "I think I can play for a very long time if I keep myself in shape," said Mota, who is baseball's No. 2 all-time pinch hitter.

It has been a typical season for the 39-year-old Mota, of the Dominican Republic. He has collected 15 hits for a .395 batting average. Among his hits was a booming double which followed Davalillo's bunt single against the Phillies.

Mota has moved within 24 hits of the career pinch-hitting record of 144 held by Smokey Burgess.

"That's the record I really want," said Mota. "I will retire happy if I get it. And I think I'll be able to do it in about two more years if everything goes right."

While Mota and Davalillo are sitting on the bench, Don Sutton, the curly haired curveballer, will be working the opener for Los Angeles against Yankees left-hander Don Gullett.

"I'm delighted to be starting the Series," said Sutton. "I think it will be much easier to open it than to sit there and watch it. I don't think we can go with anyone who will enjoy it more."

Dodgers Manager Tom Lasorda said he hasn't decided who will pitch in Game 2, the main candidates being Burt Hooton, Rick Rhoden and Doug Rau. Tommy John will start the third game Friday night at Los Angeles.

Rookie Glenn Burke, a righthanded batter, will start the Series in center field for the Dodgers. Rick Monday, a lefthanded hitter who had been the regular center fielder for Los Angeles until slowed by a back injury, will start against righthanded pitching.

pinch-hitting punch of the Dodgers, contributed key hits to help Los Angeles pull out a dramatic 6-5 ninth-inning victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Friday in the crucial third game of the National League playoffs.

Mota, one of baseball's premier pinch hitters, has been doing this for several years. Davalillo, on the other hand, hasn't. But he says he's getting used to it in a hurry.

"I'm surprised to find myself in the World Series," said the 38-year-old Davalillo, who started playing pro ball in 1958, "but I'm ready to play."

Actually, Davalillo is surprised to find himself anywhere these days. He had been languishing in the Mexican League — he was placed on waivers by Oakland 3½ years ago — until two months ago when the Dodgers plucked him out of anonymity and put him in back into the major league spotlight. They purchased his contract for the modest sum of $2,500, and the Venezuelan has made that price a

World Series mania sweeps country again

NEW YORK — A woman student at Hofstra University hits the books at night with a small portable television set on and the sound off. The World Series is on.

Mom wants to watch the Waltons. The kids, too. So, Dad, beaten but unbowed, heads for the corner tavern. The World Series is on.

These scenes are the rule, not the exception. That's why the series, which begins here Tuesday night between the Los Angeles Dodgers and New York Yankees, is much more than a sporting event. It is a slice of Americana.

People who don't watch baseball and are barely familiar with the rules, the players or the teams become involved through the biggest unorganized form of gambling known to man — the World Series pool.

It's gambling at its democratic best. Quarters and dollars are dropped into hats, cigar boxes and envelopes by mill hands, secretaries, cops and Wall Street brokers. People play at the office or get involved over lunch or a drink.

Of course, there is serious gambling, as there is on almost anything. But it is the pool that gives the World Series a special flavor because it gives people a sense of involvement and challenge, and it creates instant baseball experts and proves that hindsight is indeed beautiful.

The "experts" now get a crash course on hindsight through the league playoffs, a product of the increased number of baseball teams and the prime-time television theory that it's got to be good if a lot of people watch it. A lot of people do.

The playoffs ended Sunday night when the Yankees beat the Kansas City Royals, 5-3, for the American League championship, and the main topic on the Long Island Rail Road train from Garden City to Manhattan Monday morning was Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog's decision to take out starting pitcher Paul Splittorff with his team leading 3-1.

The consensus was that "he outmaneuvered himself."

That same commuter trip after the World Series will get a rider's suggestions about how to hit a nine iron, a smattering of business talk and an earful of complaints about taxes, the Long Island Rail Road and a dying city.

The playoffs give households throughout the nation a chance to draw domestic battle lines. The man of one house, begging anonymity, bragged Monday morning that "I won the argument about who would watch the color set." He watched the Yankees game in color while the wife and kids watched "Murder on the Orient Express" on a black-and-white portable set upstairs.

"Every once in a while they called down and asked what the score was," he said. He was pleased with himself.

While the policy of televising weekday Series games during prime time at night has put added stress on family relations, it must please bosses and teachers.

Joe doesn't have to leave his desk to find out what the score is and what inning the game is in. Johnny doesn't have to try to hide from his teacher the fact that he has a transistor radio or look out the window, wondering how the game is going.

Dodgers a sports rarity—"brotherly love" prevails

"Togetherness," said a beaming Tom Lasorda, godfather of the Los Angeles Dodgers. "That's the story of this team — togetherness. Love, Love, Love."

They call them "the huggiest team in baseball."

If, as the benign, graying skipper of the National League baseball champions insists, success is the result of man's kindness to man, team spirit and brotherhood, you can go ahead and wrap up the World Series in crimson bows and deliver it to the City of Angels.

But don't be hasty. Tradition has shown that baseball's highest prize doesn't always go to the sweetest and least tarnished by personal rivalry, jealousy and disdain.

Back in the golden days of the greatest New York Yankees teams, fiery little Miller Huggins, the manager, was constantly at war with Babe Ruth. The Babe was not always the big lovable character pictured to his fans. He was a high liver — booze, broads and bang-tails — and the Yankees squad was sharply divided into pro-Ruth and anti-Ruth factions.

Yet they won — and won and won.

The most notable example of a team that seemed to be fueled by inner turmoil — certainly the one of most recent memory — was Charlie Finley's band of brigands at Oakland in the early 1970s, five times in the league title series, World Series champions in 1972, 1973 and 1974.

They were a roistering, feuding and fussing band — these colorful A's with their 1890 beards and rakish mustaches and utter disregard for diamond decorum.

They represented a roll call of some of the game's finest talent — Reggie Jackson, Sal Bando, Vida Blue, Catfish Hunter, Rollie Fingers and Joe Rudi, most of them now scattered by the free agent draft. But they had fist fights in the locker room. They feuded with their owner and manager.

Recalling those riotous days, Reggie Jackson, now a $2.9 million Yankees outfielder, says, "We fought among ourselves, it is true, but these little quarrels only sharpened us for the enemy."

"When we took the field, dissension disappeared. We were all driven by intense personal pride."

It would take a college of psychiatrists to unravel the intricacies of this paradox. They could use the current Yankees as the laboratory guinea pig.

Here is a team of unlimited skills — "the best that money can buy," some pundits insist — yet a team that has been riddled internally all year.

There have been squawks about the interference of George Steinbrenner, who bankrolls the team and has a fierce desire to rebuild the Yankees dynasty. The manager, Billy Martin, strongly independent, with a record of defying management at Minnesota, Detroit and Texas, knows he is hanging by a string — ready to be fired at any minute.

Several team members, specifically Thurman Munson, openly resent Jackson, the outspoken super star. Mickey Rivers, who has played better ball than anybody in the playoffs, says he wants to be traded.

Unhappy teams or happy teams, which win World Series?

Slap down that 10 bucks and let's see.

UOP's Gibson tops in PCAA

LOS ANGELES — Running back Bruce Gibson of the University of Pacific has been named the Pacific Coast Athletic Association offensive football player of the week for his performance against Hawaii last Saturday, the PCAA announced Monday.

Gibson, a 6-foot, 225-pound fullback from Redlands, Calif., gained 173 yards on 29 carries and scored three touchdowns as the Tigers rolled to a 37-7 victory over the Rainbows.

Bob Glazebrook, Fresno State's free safety, was named the PCAA defensive player of the week for the second straight time. Glazebrook, a 6-foot-2, 200-pounder from Fresno, was credited with 16 tackles in the Bulldogs' 34-14 upset victory over San Diego State.

Glazebrook also intercepted a pass and deflected three other passes.

Sub Dils earns praise

STANFORD, Calif. — It was the sort of performance opponents have come to expect from Stanford quarterbacks — even if it was accomplished by a nearly unknown reserve.

Steve Dils, forced to start against UCLA when Guy Benjamin suffered a knee injury, completed 24 of 37 passes for 287 yards, including a gamewinning touchdown in a 32-28 victory.

"He had an opportunity few people ever have and he came away a winner," said Stanford Coach Bill Walsh. "He led the team and at times carried the team with his great poise. I'm so happy for him."

"I wasn't surprised that Dils ran the team so well," said UCLA Coach Terry Donohue. "Stanford has had a great tradition of outstanding quarterbacks and Dils is no exception."

Dils, a junior who had turned it into the Super Bowl," moaned one Diabolo Valley College coach.

"I was disappointed we couldn't get our second team offense in the game," complained Viking head coach Sam DeVito. "They needed the work."

You'd have thought DVC just blew its third straight game from the attitude of the coaches after Saturday night's 28-21 victory over West Valley College.

The win at Viking Field in Pleasant Hill was DVC's first of the season and improved its Golden Gate Conference mark to 1-2. WVC, also nicknamed the Vikings, fell to 0-2 in league play and 1-3 overall.

The Vikings were in control most of the game and had a 28-7 lead midway through the fourth quarter.

The West Valley kings began turning the laughter into a struggle against DVC's second-string defense.

Bill Tantillo, West Valley's talented freshman signal-caller, tossed a 12-yard touchdown pass to Warren Lopez with 8:03 remaining and the score was suddenly 28-14.

The six-pointer made the DVC coaches a little un-

Amador hopes to gain third

Amador Valley High School has an excellent chance to move into third place in the East Bay Athletic League tennis standings when it hosts California High today on the Dons' courts.

The Dons are 5-3 and tied for third with Livermore. However, the Pokes are meeting second place San Ramon (6-2) in Livermore and face a difficult battle.

Other EBAL tennis matches have Dublin (3-5) meeting host Foothill (1-7) and undefeated Monte Vista taking on Granada (4-4) in Danville.

Amador Valley will have freshman star Matt Anger leading them against the Grizzlies. Anger upset Monte Vista's top-seeded player Doug Stone last week. Stone, a sophomore, was ranked 23rd in the country last year for 14-year boys. He is probably one of the top prep netters in the Bay Area this season if not THE best.

All matches begin at 3:30 p.m.

comfortable and they decided to leave their first-string offense in the game.

But quarterback Jim Saunders, replacing Ed Fitzgerald at the beginning of the fourth period, couldn't move the club and had to turn the ball over to West Valley.

Starting at their 37-yard line, Santa Clara County's Vikings promptly moved the ball the required 63 yards in 11 plays, capped by a 12-yard touchdown pass from Tantillo to Rocky Pena, and with 2:50 remaining it was a contest.

But Saunders, keeping the ball on the ground, ran out the clock. DVC was threatening to score as the game ended.

"It's a great feeling to walk away with a win," DeVito claimed. "It's been a long time coming."

Diabolo Valley wasted no time getting on the scoreboard as Fitzgerald plunged over from the one seven minutes into the opening round. The score was setup when a high snap from center sailed over the head of West Valley punter Jeff Kahn. DVC's Steve Zachary, a sophomore out of Ygnacio Valley, recovered at the one.

West Valley momentarily tied the game at 7-7 on a 61-yard bomb from Tantillo to Pena.

But on the next series the local Vikings put together their best drive of the season, going from West Valley's 10-yard line to pay dirt in 17 plays. Jim Lane, a transfer from Los Medanos who compiled 113 yards in 24 carries Saturday night, scored his first of three touchdowns from the four.

The drive was a costly one, however, because starting tailback Gary McGrath suffered a severely sprained knee. He was removed from the field on a stretcher and taken to the hospital.

On Diabolo Valley's next possession Scott Meader set-up an easy six-pointer when he returned Kahn's punt 59 yards to the West Valley 27 yard line.

From that point DVC scored in six plays, Lane again capping the drive from the eight-yard line.

"That punt return was the real turning point," DeVito said. After the ensuing touchdown the Viking defense stiffened and made it nearly impossible for WVC to run or throw the ball in until the fourth quarter.

The Vikings scored their last TD in the third stanza when Lane broke three tackles and sprinted into the end zone from the 14.

"We just ran right at them," DeVito explained. "We knew they like to sit back and read the plays."

Fitzgerald, who played his best game of the season, said he tried to keep them off balance.

"We knew they had been having trouble against the run so when we caught them looking for it we threw," he stated. And quite impressively. Although he only passed for 96 yards, the Northgate sophomore completed nine of 15 and had no interceptions. Saunders added two more completions in three attempts for 24 yards while Mike Brown dashed for 95 yards in 19 carries.

Added up it spelled victory for DVC, something that was a long time coming.

Key VB match set

Granada and Amador Valley will battle in a key East Bay Athletic League volleyball match tonight at the Matadors' court.

Amador Valley is 3-2 and Granada is 4-1, one game behind leader San Ramon. San Ramon has a 5-0 mark.

In other EBAL matches tonight Livermore (2-3) is at Dublin (2-3), Monte Vista (1-4) visits San Ramon and California (2-3) hosts Foothill (1-4).

An Amador Valley win over Granada combined with a San Ramon victory over Monte Vista would give the Wolves a solid two-game lead in the EBAL championship race.

The Dublin-Livermore match is a must for each team. The team that loses will virtually fall out of the title competition. The winner will stay in the battle.

Very tough to understand

On Sports

SAN FRANCISCO — Joe Thomas says I don't know anything about football. Oh, not me exclusively. Me, you and the guy next door.

Writers and fans don't know a thing about football. If Thomas can get enough people to believe that, if he can make us believe our questions are really quite stupid and ill-advised, he can keep from being taken into account for the San Francisco 49ers failings all the longer.

Joe Thomas

Well, Joe, I may not know football, but I know what I like. Except for a few spells of uncontrolled laughter, I did not like the 49ers 7-0 loss to Atlanta Sunday at Candlestick Park.

And, I still get the idea I know just a teeny-weeny bit about a game I've been watching and, very briefly, playing since kindergarten. While Joe Thomas, the Niners' executive vice-president and general manager, stuffs cotton in his ears to ward off the chants of "We want Clark," and "Fire Meyer," I keep remembering gridiron legends.

Vince Lombardi. Execution and an ultra-thin play-book. Nothing fancy, no multiple offense. Bart Starr hands to Jim Taylor who follows a Jerry Kramer block for six yards. Do that enough and you'll win.

Pop Warner. I suppose this story is a bit of a racial slur, but I'll risk that to illustrate a point. Warner coached at the Carlisle Indian School for a time, the school that turned out Jim Thorpe and a host of other National Football League pioneers. Carlisle stocked almost the entire roster of Thorpe's Marion (Ohio) Oorang Indians.

Occasionally, the story goes, Carlisle would recruit one of those native Americans most often seen in movies, old Stanford rooster decals and standing outside cigar stores. The guy from the furthest corner of the reservation who was barely conversant in English.

This is a simple game, Warner or one of his veteran players would explain to a strapping, but befuddled newcomer. When red man has ball, knock white man down. When white man has ball, grab him.

Sometimes, the tiny vocational college would find itself outmanned. In that situation, the Indians would resort to tricks like sewing football sized chunks of leather to the front of their jerseys to fool defenders.

And that, folks, is football. Get the other guy out of the way, move the ball up field and fool 'em once in a while.

All this revolving zone, split-T-veer-multiple-option-slot-righttrap-left-on-two nonsense boils down to selection and fundamentals. Even in the modern era, a Woody Hayes can win the national collegiate championship while treating the forward pass as if it were a communist plot. Why throw if you can run? And what's so mysterious about an off-tackle play?

Even in the modern era, amongst the blatherings of the National Football League's house organ, Pro, the deceptive, drawn-in-the-dirt-of-the-huddle play still works, as long-time 49er rooters can ruefully recall.

In a play-off game to decide the 1958 Western Division title, Detroit beat the Niners, 31-27, at Kezar Stadium, partially through the graces of the "Whats-the-matter" play.

Memory has erased the names, but the play went something like this: Detroit came up to the line and the quarterback began barking out the signals. Suddenly, a back shouted, "wait a minute."

The QB, feigning disgust, turned and snapped, "what's the matter, now?" That was the signal. As the QB cleared out of the way, the center-snap went to a running back, who dashed for a healthy gain that was one of the game's key plays.

Power, deception, execution. Equals football. Minus confidence. Something the 49ers obviously do not have. This is the same team that was 8-6 last season. Why 0-4 now?

San Francisco's new owners, headed by Eddie DeBartolo replaced immensely popular Monte Clark with Ken Meyer as head coach when Clark refused to turn over his control of roster changes to Thomas.

Meyer and his assistants have called all the plays this season, a season that now has the Niners 1-9, counting exhibitions.

How can the players feel about playing-calling that hands the ball to the same back four times in a row to start the game? How secure can a quarterback feel when he is allowed to start a possession with a pass only three times in 11?

Thomas got his control of player transactions. He picked up punt and kick returner Rick Jennings and dropped Steve Rivera. Meyer does not use Jennings, though Anthony Leonard has had problems not only this season, but last.

Meyer said Sunday, "Tony's instructions are not to return anything inside the 10, that's been the instructions everywhere I've been in don't field a punt inside the ten." Yet, Leonard snared one punt and inadvertently stepped out of bounds at the nine."

49er-Falcon statistics are on page 7

night. The Wolves, who dropped their second game in five outings, still managed a tenth place ranking in the poll after being seventh last week.

Three other East Bay Athletic League teams received honorable mentions. Monte Vista (4-1), Dublin (3-2), and Amador Valley (3-2) remained in the list.

In this week's EBAL action, another clash of undefeated teams takes place in Pleasanton when Amador Valley hosts Livermore.

The Dons received a moderately effective offensive game and a solid defensive effort in beating Foothill 16-7 Friday.

Livermore has the league's leading rusher in junior fullback Pete Martinez, who has picked up 130 yards in two games. The 'Pokes also have a superb defense against the rush, having not yet allowed a net yard in two games.

Their total yards surrendered have amounted to negative ten yards. Amador has the league's best defense against the pass, having given up only 129 yards, but the 'Pokes are not a passing team. Livermore is by far the biggest running team in the league, packing the ball for 442 yards in two contests while getting just 83 yards via the air. They lead the EBAL in total offense.

The Cowboy secondary will receive a test against the pons, who have quarterback Pat Inglesby and receivers Paul McCleary and tailback Rob Flores to spring at any moment. The Dons have passed for 265 yards this year, third best in EBAL.

Other games will pit undefeated Monte Vista playing host to winless Granada, as the Mats will attempt to salvage the remainder of the season beginning with an upset of the Mustangs; San Ramon will play winless California in Danville, and Dublin attempts to increase their title chances against Foothill, still looking for their first win of the season.

Kennedy of Richmond remains the number one team at 5-0, while Mission San Jose is second at 4-0. Antioch, also 4-0, received one first place vote and was rated third.

Cleveland errs, Raiders win

CLEVELAND — Mistakes were the story Sunday as the Cleveland Browns made them and the Oakland Raiders used them to post their 17th straight National Football League victory, a 26-10 triumph.

The main Oakland weapons were veteran placekicker Errol Mann, who booted four field goals, and running back Mark van Eeghen, who ran for 114 yards and scored two second half touchdowns.

Mann, who spent the first 8½ years of his career with havenots Detroit and Green Bay before coming to Oakland midway through last season, gave the Raiders a 9-3 lead as he connected for three-pointers on their first three possessions.

"I'm fortunate I have a chance to contribute to the Raiders," the 36-year-old Mann explained. "It was hard to kick because the field was in such soggy condition, but this team (Oakland) is great.

"The holder and the snap are always good," he added happily. "All you really have to do is run up and swing your leg."

The Raiders, who take on Denver next week in their bid to tie the NFL record of 18 straight victories set by Chicago in 1933-34 and tied by the Bears in 1941-42 and Miami in 1972-73, raised their season mark to 4-0.

"It's important that we kept this thing (the string) going," said Oakland Coach John Madden quietly. "We were tired after playing the Monday night game (in Kansas City), but we were ready today, and it's a good thing we were."

The loss to Oakland left Cleveland at 2-2 after a murderous start against Cincinnati, New England, Pittsburgh and the Raiders, a record Browns' Coach Forrest Gregg admitted he might have wished for four weeks ago.

"At the beginning of the year we would have taken that kind of record because all four teams we played are Super Bowl candidates," Gregg said. "But we helped Oakland today just like we helped Pittsburgh last week (in a 28-14 loss). We could have won the games."

The Browns fumbled five times, losing three, and had two passes intercepted against the Raiders. But they hung tough in the first half, trailing only 9-3 at the intermission as Don Cockroft kicked a 41-yard field goal on the Browns' first possession and the offense threatened two other times before stalling.

Then newly acquired Ken Ellis fumbled the second half kickoff at Cleveland's six-yard line and two plays later van Eeghen made the first of his two 3-yard touchdown runs, breaking it open.

Amador gains first

Amador Valley defeated San Ramon, 28-32, to highlight East Bay Athletic League cross country action yesterday.

Both teams entered yesterday's competition with 3-0 records. The Dons' victory put them in sole possession of first place, followed closely by San Ramon and Granada, which defeated California.

Leading the way for Amador was Greg Novacek, the Dons' top scorer with a second-place finish in 15:33. San Ramon's Mark Baker won the race in a losing cause. His time was 15:14.

Amador's depth proved to be the difference, as the Dons captured fourth place and swept the sixth through ninth spots.

Granada defeated California rather easily, 18-28. The Mats took the top three places — Dwane Goularte took first in 17:04, followed by teammates Chuck Whelan, in 17:10, and Ed Jessop, in 17:11.

Chuck Dicory was Cal's top finisher, finishing in fourth place with an 18:09 clocking.

In another EBAL race, Dublin defeated Monte Vista, 20-28.

Dublin's Robin Moss outran all competition by over 40 seconds. He clocked a 17:10, followed closely by teammates Steve Hayes and Daryl Williams.

Monte Vista's top finishers were Oli Lemola and Dave Fumia, who finished fourth and fifth, respectively.

In girls' competition, San Ramon defeated Amador Valley, 17-24, despite a fine first-place performance by the Dons' Wendy Behnbaum.

San Ramon's superior depth proved to be the difference, though, as the Wolves took seven of the top ten places.

Granada and Dublin were also victorious in girls' competition when neither of their opponents could field a full team.

Two-year olds get going

SAN MATEO — Two-year olds begin marching toward the $100,000 added El Camino Real Stakes this week at Bay Meadows, with some of the West's most promising young thoroughbreds slated to see action in Saturday's running of the $25,000-added Burlingame Stakes.

Scheduled for Saturday,

November 19, the El Camino Real Stakes is the third jewel in the Western Triple Crown for two-year olds.

Go West Young Man, winner of the recent Del Mar Futurity in a stunning upset, is the only freshman with a chance of emulating the feat of Telly's Pop, who became the first, and only, triple crown victor in 1975.

The second leg of the important series will be contested Sunday, November 6, when the $200,000 Norfolk Stakes is presented at Santa Anita.

Among those pointing for the Burlingame are Capt. Don and Natural Joe, who finished one-two in the recent $25,000-added Sir Francis Stakes at six furlongs.

Also in the running for berths in the weekend headliner are No No and Hoist The Silver, highly impressive winners in allowance races last week. Other potential starters are Double Win, Go Going Gone, Hammerin' Hank, Imakennedy, King's Luck, Majestic Myth, Merry

Mac, Tern Time and Windy Merry.

Racing resumes this afternoon at 1 p.m. with the $8500 Walnut Creek Senior Citizens Purse highlighting the nine-race card. Slated to start in the one-mile allowance test are Diego, Mr. Charm, Lava Jet, Atom Line, Vested Gold, Pass The Gun and Rock Note.

Wilcox wins

Todd Wilcox fired a three-under-par 139 to win the Eighth Annual Livermore City Golf Championship Sunday at Las Positas Golf Course.

Wilcox won the title by two strokes over Mark Abfalter and Jim McMurtrey of Diablo. He fired rounds of 69 and 70.

Todd's total ties him for the best in the history of the tournament. Rob Thompson posted a 139 in 1974 but Positas was played as a par-72 that year. First-round leader Jeff Early fell to a 78 after carding an opening round 67, which had given him a two-shot lead entering Sunday's final 18 holes.

Amador jv still atop EBAL

Amador Valley High School's junior varsity football team kept up its winning ways with a 27-13 win over Foothill Friday night in Pleasanton.

Scott Smith scored two TD's for the Dons while Chuck Thole got a pair as well, one on a 20-yard pass from Glenn Gunter that put Amador ahead to stay.

Dublin scored all its points in the second quarter to defeat Granada, 12-7. Matt Carrere put the Gaels on the scoreboard with a 1-yard plunge and Jerry Fikes provided the margin of victory with a three-yard run.

Granada managed a 20-yard scoring pass from Bruce Miller to John Waldera.

Livermore ripped San Ramon, 26-6, as Mark Cardoza scored two TDs and Stuart Lawson ripped off a 61-yard scoring sprint. Cary James tallied for the Wolves from six yards away.

Saturday, Monte Vista edged California, 28-27, in a heart-breaker.

Cal was taken from behind after scoring the first two touchdowns on a 15-yard pass from Jim Morgan to Greg Bishop and a Blake Hornberger fumble recovery.

A later Cal score had Larry Lavezzo grabbing Morgan's second touchdown pass of the game.

Matador frosh blank 'em

Granada High School blanked Dublin, 16-0, in freshman football last Thursday at Dublin.

William Paul kicked a 23-yard field goal with 35 seconds left in the first half to break the ice after an apparent Matador touchdown was called back via an illegal procedure penalty.

In the third quarter, Matt Robison scored on a six yard pass from Jack Trudeau to climax a 60-yard Granada drive. The final score came on Tim Marriott's 30-yard interception return for a touchdown early in the fourth quarter.

Chuck Lennier rushed 65 yards on 10 carries for Granada and had a 30-yard touchdown run called back in the first period. The Mats had 226 yards of total offense.

For further information, call Christine Schnitzer at VCS Recreation Department, 828-7711.

Tennis activities for players of all ability levels in the Dublin-San Ramon area are provided by the Dublin Tennis Club.
This club has been in existence for five years. Eight tournaments are scheduled annually during the tennis season. No tournaments are scheduled November through February, according to the club's Publicity Director, Betty Liske.

Ladder players are required to accept at least one challenge monthly in order to remain on the ladder.
The registration deadline is Oct. 15. Cost is $3 per person. Families of three or more may run for $5. If a person wants to register the day of the race they must apply by 8 a.m. The race begins at 10 a.m. at the Amador Community Park.

ATTIC INSULATION CAN SAVE ENOUGH HEAT TO PAY FOR ITSELF AND SAVE MONEY TOO

That's news that's worth spreading around. The fact that insulating the attic can save the average home owner at least $50 a year in heating costs, means that over the long haul, attic insulation will not only pay for itself, but will save money... and energy... too.

And in these days of energy shortages, we'd better save all we can.

Here's another plus. PG&E will make insulating your home easier by arranging free estimates from two qualified contractors, to help you get the right price. If you request it, we'll inspect the work when it's done. And we'll give you a certificate of installation to R-19 standards, which may come in handy if you ever decide to sell your home.

All in all, you've got a lot to gain. So if you want help in contractor referrals, or more information, call PG&E's Energy Conservation Center, toll free, at 800-792-8000, Monday through Friday, 8 AM to 8 PM. (If your telephone area code is 805, call collect to 415-543-2073.) Or fill out and mail the coupon or return it with your bill payment.

Do it now, before winter sets in. So you can feel warm all over about the money you'll save.

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My friend is a respected high school teacher. She's also the mother of a 14-year-old boy. She tells me that she avoids sexual subjects when she's talking to him and that she thinks parents aren't the best teachers when it comes to sex. This has made me reluctant to talk with my 15-year-old daughter and I'm worried because I don't think she's getting any information at high school that will prepare her for the encounters she will have with sophisticated young boys.

—A.B.

DEAR A.B.: I disagree with your neighbor if she feels it's unwise for a mother to talk with her children about sex. While it's true that mothers may pass on their inhibitions to their daughters, or may try to repress them, or deny their daughter's sexuality, I still believe a mother can do a lot in educating her daughter about sex. Obviously, to do this, however, there must be a background of closeness and understanding. Generally, a father should inform his son, and a mother, her daughter.

A mother and daughter who have never shared anything or who have never talked can't suddenly leap into the subject of sex and expect to communicate on any deep level. If a mother and daughter constantly bicker, then it's also unlikely that they can have a meaningful, worthwhile conversation. I would guess from your letter that you and your daughter have a rather close friendship.

Before you talk with your daughter, make sure that you're well informed. This will help you guard against passing on your own fears and prejudices. Don't assume that your daughter has a lot of facts. Teenagers are often surprisingly ignorant about sex.

Don't be afraid or embarrassed to ask your doctor or other professional for help if you feel you need it to properly discuss sex with your daughter.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I'm a stern disciplinarian because I believe a child should respect authority for what it is and learn to obey. After all, what is adult life but obeying rules of one kind or another. My wife grew up thinking she had to question everything. Because of these conflicting views we have a lot of hassles, as you might imagine. We also argue about how much love and affection we should show. I don't know who's right, but I'm sick of the quarrels. —B.K.

DEAR B.K.: I think the best answer on the issues of discipline and the expression of love (and they're really one and the same) would be to follow a middle course. The constant disagreement, especially if it's expressed in front of your children, is extremely destructive. I do believe parents should present a united front when it comes to discipline. When they don't children are quick to sense it, and they're apt to play one parent against the other.

Children need discipline and the parent who rejects discipline in any form is neglecting his duty as a parent. He's also telling the child that he doesn't care enough to take the trouble to discipline.

I disagree, however, with teaching a child to obey anything and everything just because it comes from the voice of authority. It was this type of discipline that brought about Nazi Germany and the situation at My Lai during the Vietnam war. Democracy demands individuals capable of thinking and analyzing for themselves. The authoritarian home neither stimulates free thinking, nor does it prepare good citizens for a democratic society.

I also question what you mean by "stern" discipline. This can mean many things to many people. I prefer just "discipline" — the kind that allows the child to keep his self-respect, that allows him to respect his parents.

SIDE GLANCES

by Gil Fox

"I'd like the fasten-your-seatbelt screaming sound tuned down little... It sounds too much like my wife!"

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — I just read your column about the lady who likes to smoke and I have some additional comments that I feel from deep inside my conscience.

After smoking since I was 12 years old I've grown increasingly dependent on my vice. I also resent the comments made by people that it's a nasty habit and offends people socially. But may I ask why everyone makes such a big deal of smoking and completely ignores those who drink themselves into a stupor every night because they want to relax?

I feel resentful toward people when they drink and become different from the persons they really are! They become obnoxious, mouthy and care less about anyone's feelings and there are those who suddenly become quiet and are about as much company as a brick wall.

They drive and cause many accidents that in many cases involve innocent people and inconvenience people by "passing out" and having to be carried out. Thanks, but if there's a choice, I'll take smoking. It's much less hazardous.

DEAR READER — Funny, but I had an idea that you may have had someone close to you in mind when you were complaining about the effects of drinking on the personality.

There is no reason why you need to choose between two bad habits. I don't recommend drinking instead of smoking and I don't recommend smoking instead of drinking. My advice is don't do either.

Alcoholism is a severe problem. Did you know cirrhosis of the liver is the fourth common cause of death in American men between the ages of 35 and 54 and that 60 per cent of these liver deaths are caused by alcoholism? It's true. It is just another example of how people affect their own health, as opposed to depending upon the doctor to provide life and health everlasting regardless of what they do.

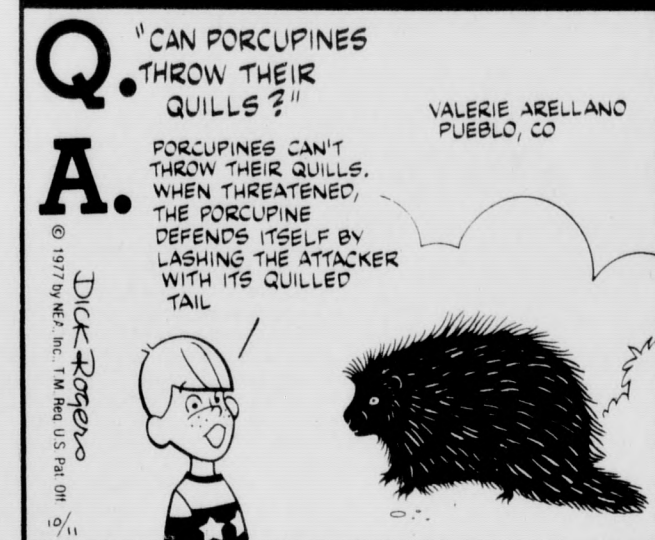

No, I am not going to endorse your bad habit but I will say that drinking irresponsibly is also hazardous to your health. I would concur that a warning label should be on every beverage containing alcohol. It is a poison. It does destroy health, personality and families.

There are a lot of people who both drink to excess and smoke. The combination is like playing Russian roulette with two chambers of the revolver instead of just one.

Incidentally it is not true that alcohol relaxes a person. It may be a social lubricant for some people but it is a depressant or an anesthetic.

The person may not feel his anxiety or tension but he has not relieved it with alcohol. He has only numbed his senses. It is not a good tranquilizer. A much better and more healthy tranquilizer is exercise. A good walk, a swim, or participation in some sport you enjoy is much more relaxing and much better for a person's health. A wife can help in this area by planning family activities at the end of the day that provides healthy exercise.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "CAN PORCUPINES THROW THEIR QUILLS?"

A. PORCUPINES CAN'T THROW THEIR QUILLS. WHEN THREATENED, THE PORCUPINE DEFENDS ITSELF BY LASHING THE ATTACKER WITH ITS QUILLED TAIL.

Porcupines are small animals noted for their armor of sharp quills, which are very stiff hairs.

The belief that the porcupine shoots its quills at enemies by a swish of its tail isn't true.

When danger threatens, the porcupine turns its back to the danger, bristles its quills, and defends itself by striking the attacker with its well-armed tail, which can plant a dozen or more needle-sharp quills in the attacker's nose. The quills make painful wounds, and are

Oct. 11, 1977

There may be something you'd like to try as a sideline, hobby or avocation this coming year. By all means pursue it. It could lead to something far more interesting.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) An influential friend who is usually willing to help you may not be accessible today. It's best to plan on going it alone, to avoid disappointment.

CORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your returns are usually in proportion to the time, effort and money you've invested. Don't expect a windfall today from the pittance you gave a friend.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Avoid financial involvement today with those you know little about. All may appear A-O-K on the surface, but that's not good enough.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) The opinions you espouse are not popular with the majority today. You could get hit with a tomato for your efforts.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Usually you're innovative in developing new methods. Today, however, the labor-saving devices you champion may cause more work.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Major changes should not be made impulsively today. Sleep on them. You could later be unhappy with your decision.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be wary of making lavish promises today for the sake of expediency. The momentary friends you make could become long-term enemies.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're a better postponer today than you are a producer. Convert the energy you'd use making excuses into a drive to get things done.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) There's a strong possibility your priorities are out of kilter today. You're interested in many things, but get little done.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In family matters today try not to be so opinionated that there's no room for thoughts of others. They could be even more fruitful than yours.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be very cautious today in drawing the line between rational thinking and irrational optimism. Too much of the latter will lead you awry.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There's a strong possibility today that your overwhelming desire for an object may lead you to pay more for it than it's worth. Try to control yourself.

Opening lead — ♣

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Here is a problem hand composed by Eddy Kantar, one of our greatest players. Try to avoid looking at the East-West hands until you have planned your entire play starting at trick four.

West starts out by playing ace-king and a third heart. You win in your own hand and must plan the play.

You start by assuming that West will hold both black kings. He really needs them to have an opening bid. Maybe this doesn't worry you and it won't unless it turns out that West holds three trumps and just one diamond. Can you guard against that unpleasant possibility?

You can, but it requires considerable care. You start by cashing your ace of clubs and ruffing the jack.

Now if you stop thinking and just lead dummy's jack of spades the hand will collapse. West will take his king and lead a diamond. You won't be able to shut out his 10 of trumps.

So you cash one high diamond before leading that jack of spades and nothing can touch you.

Learn TV production

PLEASANTON — Want to be a tee vee producer? A new workshop is starting Oct. 27 to run for six consecutive Thursday evenings from 8 to 10:30 o'clock at the Pleasanton School.

The instructor is Darla Stevens, who has pioneered local programming in the Valley, and who produces the local "Cable Connection" seen each Thursday evening by cable subscribers at 8 o'clock on Channel 10.

Goals of the workshop include producing material for broadcast on the program.

Emphasis is on editing and creating the finished product.

Students will get some work on the studio camera, and learn to integrate this into the program.

A long-term goal is to continue to build the Valley wide Community Television Workshop, which is an on-going, open-ended workshop made up of skilled producers who can produce local community television programming.

The video production experience is highly stimulating and calls on all creative talents in accomplishing the moderating, writing, narrating, art work, and in decision making behind the camera, directing and at the editing desk, says Stevens.

"The satisfaction of seeing your well produced work on television is one of the most exciting rewards of learning these video skills," she adds. "Another is the feeling of being of service to the community by adding to the flow of communication. You may be just the person to bring the most interesting and talked about segment of the year to the local viewing audience."

The fee is $18 for six evenings; enrollment is limited.

The city's recreation department is offering the program.

Call 846-3202, ext. 215 for further information.

Nature walks begin with Sunol staff

Fall weekend interpretative walks have begun in the East Bay Regional Parks' Sunol Regional Wilderness led by naturalists from the park staff.

The three hour family walks will be offered Saturdays in October and November to explore various parts of the 3,479 acre preserve. Among the walks planned:

ber 12; explore Indian Joe Caves along the Indian Joe Creek Trails which leads to a basalt outcrop honeycombed with niches and caves, about three miles.

*October 22 and November 19; hike to the top of Flag Hill along a good but steep trail, about three miles.

*October 29 and November 26; visit to Little Yosemite which includes numerous waterfalls, about three miles.

Amador trustees respond

The Amador Valley Joint High School District board will present its response to the amended contract proposal of the Amador Valley Secondary Educators Association at tonight's regular board meeting.

Sunol has also planned a series of theme nature walks with the staff naturalists for the fall. Groups should meet at the Old Barn Sundays at 1:30 p.m. Topics for October and November include "Reasons for Seasons," "Plants and People" and "It's a Wise Woodsman Who Knows What's Biting Him."

Trustees convene at 8 p.m. Tonight's meeting will be held in the Sunol Glen School library in Sunol.

The board is also slated to hear reports on AB 65, the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) Program, and summer school.

Approval of a contract with the law firm of Breon, Galgani and Godino is also on the agenda. The board will also consider acceptance of paving additions to the student parking lot at Dublin High School, act on an agreement for graphics offset equipment at Dublin High, approve a textbook list, and adopt a resolution authorizing participation in federal surplus property donation program.

PTA meet scheduled

The 16th District PTA Board of Managers will hold its annual school superintendent's brunch on Monday, Oct. 17, 10 a.m. in Room 34 of the Alameda County Education Center, 685 A St., Hayward.

Members of the board, including 10 PTA council presidents, and Alameda County school district superintendents will informally discuss matters of mutual concern affecting the schools and the PTA.
